WRITTEN BY HANSON

A reporter started out yesterday to gather the opinions of prominent Paducah men on the state legislature. The question he wanted to ask was calculated to inspire the sunnier lawmakers with conceit. One of the most prominent men said: "The people think the legislature should do one thing—pass a law abolishing the legislature. If they do this they will have the everlasting gratitude of the good people of Kentucky."

The other night, after revival services at one of the churches had been concluded, a prominent gentleman who is inclined to skepticism was wending his way homeward slightly in advance of his friends. It was the first time he had been to church in some time, and he went then perhaps as a diversion, and was obviously disappointed. He heard footsteps in the rear, and presently some one inquired in pleasant tones, "Well, how did you like the sermon?"

"Too—long-winded," was the laconic reply.

"My friend, you do not seem to be a Christian," kindly rejoined the voice.

"Who in the hell are you, anyhow?" exclaimed the lone pedestrian, who thought he was talking to one of his friends, and turned to find out if he was mistaken. He was somewhat embarrassed to find the visiting preacher on a side of him, and the pastor of the church on the other. Explanations were made, and the trio soon became good friends. The pastor generally agreed before, but pointed out that one of the best sermons ever preached was only ten minutes long.

Those who witnessed the play presented by Mr. Clement, a few nights ago, to much be surprised. Haron H. Clement, no doubt, marveled at the smoothness with which the performance went off. Every advent and exit seemed to be just at the proper time, and the characters on the stage out of place or where they could not be seen to best advantage, and still there was no indication of its being done mechanically.

Mr. Clement explained this to some of his friends by saying that when he had a play to produce he always studied everything, even to the minutest detail, until he arranged it to suit himself. One of his favorite ways of determining the positions and actions of the various players is by a checker board. He and his wife, his first wife, in his early days when he was a poor struggling actor, always used a checker board to decide on the positions and moves that were to be assumed or made in the play, and they found the checker board a most excellent one. The exchange play, great many pay no attention to positions and movements on the stage, but these have much to do with looking at making a piece. Mr. Clement still uses the checker board.

Mayor W. M. Pollard, of Fayetteville, Ark., who left Paducah for home yesterday, after being elected a director for the Paducah Building Trust Company, is an exact counterpart of Hon. W. J. Bryan, the "boy orator." Mr. Pollard, for this reason, never fails to attract great attention wherever he goes, and when the people saw him on the streets here more than one asked if Billy Bryan was here.

NEWS NOTES.

The annual report of chief engineer Adams, of New York, shows a decline of New York's control of the import and export trade of the country by the development of other ports. The report states that while New York thirty years ago commanded 75 per cent. of the exports of the nation it now commands but 37 per cent.

Another "reference" is said to have almost enough of the business of settling patronage disputes among Kentucky Republicans. Hon. John W. Lewis has not found political umpiring any more agreeable in the third district than Hon. George Deany found it in the twentieth, of Hon. John W. Lewis' friend, it in the tenth.

A letter has been received at Washington from Consul Barker, at Sagua la Grande, Cuba, stating that thousands of people are starving to death and that donations of money are urgently needed.

General rains throughout California are proving a great benefit to fruit and other crops, which for some time had been threatened with destruction by long continued droughts.

The national senate is believed to be about evenly divided on the subject of postal savings banks, and a bill to establish the system may pass that branch of congress.

COLOR PHOTOGRAPHY.

Improved and Explained—A Remarkable Phenomenon Brought Out.

Some extraordinary estimates have been current as to the success attained by Prof. Langemann in his attempts to obtain color in photography. These should be corrected by a more careful consideration of his latest work. The interval which has elapsed since he first exhibited and explained his results in the Royal Society in the spring of last year has, of course, enabled him to attain to greater perfection in his process, but in the effort to secure the problem of photography in color. The phrase "color photography" is a misnomer, for in a sense it is not a new process, but a new method of obtaining color in photography. It is not a new process, but a new method of obtaining color in photography. It is not a new process, but a new method of obtaining color in photography.

One of the most important points in the new process is the use of a special kind of light. This light is produced by a special kind of light. This light is produced by a special kind of light. This light is produced by a special kind of light.

The new process is a great improvement on the old process. It is a great improvement on the old process. It is a great improvement on the old process. It is a great improvement on the old process.

MAX WOODS HELD.

Charles Moore charged with a Grave Offense.

Max Woods, charged in two cases with intent to rob, was held over in Judge Sanders' court this morning, on two charges, his bond being fixed at $200 in each case, in default of which he went to jail. It was proven this morning that Woods was seen with a pistol two or three before the alleged assault. Ed Lydon, the alleged witness, was before the court and testified.

The case against Harry Miller, colored, charged with resisting officer Gray, was argued and left open until tomorrow.

Jim Toier, the man who has gained an almost national reputation by working saloon keepers on the "colic" trick, practiced to get drunk, was charged with being drunk. He was still drunk. He said he was sorry and would never drink again. Judge Sanders begged him not to say such things. They endangered his soul's salvation. Toier apologized by informing his auditors that he really had pain when he made out like he did. That it was caused by morphine. He was allowed to go free when he got sober.

Annie Copeland, with a black eye and a reputation of similar hue, was fined $1 and costs for drunkenness. There is more about the black eye.

W. D. Ashby and Leslie Thompson, the two tailors, were fined $1 and costs and $5 and costs, respectively, for their drunkenness.

Chas. Moore, recently fined $50 and costs for creating a disturbance at a West Court street resort, was presented in Judge Sanders' court this morning on a charge of giving Annie Copeland, fined $1 for drunkenness, the black eye that embellished her countenance. The woman claimed that she was subject to "fits," and there was no evidence to show that Moore struck her. The case was left open.

Alb. Doyle, charged with breaking into Mr. J. A. Coleman's residence and stealing some quilts, waived examination and was held to answer.

A BROKEN HAND.

Interesting Case of the Town Clock.

The City Wants it Mended—A Hazardous Task.

There is trouble over the Baptist church clock. One of the huge hands on the west side of the clock is broken and hangs limp and helpless with the point continually pointing to "half-past."
